

Primary Headteachers' Conference

5th October 2017 09.00—16.30

The Belfry Hotel, Back Lane, Cambourne, Cambridge CB23 6BW

Keynote speakers:

Dr Andrew Curran When you hear Andrew speak, you will also immediately ask yourself why an understanding of the neurobiology of living, loving, learning and growing isn't on the syllabus for all teacher training everywhere?

A practising paediatric neurologist at Alder Hey Children's Hospital in Liverpool, Andrew makes the complicated workings of the learning brain not simple but understandable. And he does it in such a way that everyone can use what they have learned to improve what goes on in school.

Richard Gerver Richard uses his experiences as a former award winning teacher, globally renowned principal, school and university board member and government policy advisor, to mesh together, with clarity and deep insight, exactly what needs to be discussed and done; from high level strategy to classroom practice. Richard speaks with precision about exactly what skills, behaviours and attributes our children will need to not only survive but thrive in their futures. Richard is the author of 'Simple Thinking: How to remove complexity from life and work', 'Creating Tomorrow's Schools Today' and 'Change: It's Child Play'.

Workshops on a range of topics, including

..... Teacher and leader wellbeing..... How to help pupils in vulnerable groups.....
Creativity in schools..... Transition..... Teaching Schools.....
