Problem and Approach

- Stirling Council was the pioneering local authority in Scotland in terms of our participation in CivTech 2.0. CivTech was a highly innovative programme backed by the Scottish Government that brought together private sector businesses, public organisations and citizens with the aim of developing more efficient and effective products and services.
- The programme applied a challenge-based approach to the procurement of public products and services

Outcomes

- Stirling council saw the following benefits as a result of Civtech:
 - Process Efficiencies
 - Improved Decision Making
 - Behaviour Change
